

Brush Lettering

Basic Strokes

This stroke is like an “o” but drawn backwards. The downstroke is still thick. Except instead of going down on the left to make the thick stroke, you make the thick downstroke on the right and come up with the thin stroke on the left.

This backwards stroke is used in the lower case b, p, and s

Challenge

Try your hand, no pun intended, at putting together the strokes you learned. Don't worry if it's not perfect, no one is. Practice, practice, practice.
